

Composition of Incoming Appeals in State Appellate Courts, 2016

While both Courts of Last Resort and Intermediate Appellate Courts generally have jurisdiction for both types of review—appeals by right and appeals by permission—IACs tend to hear a considerably greater proportion of cases as a matter of right than do COLRs. In 2016, 4 of 5 cases (81%) in Intermediate Appellate Courts were appeals by right versus 1 in 3 cases (34%) in Courts of Last Resort.
